

Alaska Range Travel Logistics, Hotel options, Weather issues, Taxidermy/Expediting, etc.

Travel

You need to book a jet flight to Anchorage. From there you can get a hotel shuttle. There are a lot of options near the airport that have shuttle services. We generally recommend the Puffin Inn but there are lots of options. Plan for 1 night stay on the way out and on the way in. Sometimes the weather can cause problems and we can get stuck in town. Be prepared to spend more than one night in hotel before we get to camp.

We use a variety of air taxis. On the day of our air taxi flight, we will pick you up from your hotel room and get you where we need to go.

Hunting Licenses and Tags

Hunting Licenses, tags, and other hunting related paperwork can be purchased online through the ADFG website or be picked up at a local vendor. It's extremely important to have the correct paperwork otherwise you cannot hunt!

We will double check everything before we leave for camp.

Hide Care, Taxidermy, and Expediting Services

We will take care of any necessary hide care while in the field. When you get back to Anchorage there are plenty of options. We recommend using D&C Expeditors and Knights Taxidermy to transport your animals outside of Alaska. Both do excellent taxidermy as well.

Miscellaneous

Alaskan weather can really cause problems with travel, especially with air taxis. We recommend having the ability to change your jet flight plan in case you can't get out of camp on schedule.
